David Nugroho, Carol Laidig

Individuals approach the year with different perspectives, coming from varied backgrounds, leaving with diverse opinions.

The 1988 Maple Leaf presents words and photographs to add to your perceptions. This is all relative.

Student Central Committee: Mark Krisetya, Dan Wenger, Jeevan Paul, John Vandenberg, Linda Blades, and Dan Liechty.

SCC AND CAC STUDENT LEADERSHIP

The purpose of the opinion board is to challenge and inform students. However, the board has increasingly been used to personally attack other student's ideas and concerns. We want those posting opinions and responses to be responsible for their remarks. It is out of this concern that SCC has drawn up the set of guidelines.

CAMPUS MINISTRIES

Too often we have taken ourselves and our faith much too seriously, much more serious than God intended . . . humor allows us to laugh with each other about our personal faith practices, some of our quirks, and some of our unusual theologizing.

Keith Graber Miller
Chapel, February 15, 1988

WGCS announcers follow the action of a women's basketball game.

English major Charity Denlinger lines up crop marks for her Pinchpenny release A Time To Speak.

I think GC students are wise to be critical of students who can't accept anything past their limited world of experience. But when this means that — especially within a liberal arts education — students can't be enriched through dialogue with the conservative voice — that's stupidity.

Ellah Wakatama, winter RECORD editor, works on a paste-up sheet with Roberta Hiss.

Fall RECORD Editor Jonathan Shenk directs paste-up late on Thursday night with Associate Editor Lori Froese, Randy Hertzler, and Assistant Editor Emily Headings.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

Pinchpenny author Jeff Peachey signs Stone Styrofoam at its release.

Katherine (Kim Wagler) urges Ellard (Eric Herr) to overcome his fears and carry through the plan of rescue.

ELLARD: But your fork — man. I wish somebody else'd help you with this, 'cause I don't know anything, but — I think that your fork — your fork'd be the main thing you'd use.....can — you — say — 'fork'?
'Faw-werk'?
ELLARD: Right. Put 'em together.
Faw-werk.
CHARLIE: Faw-werk.
ELLARD: Good! That was great! Yeah. That was great.

THE FOREIGNER by Larry Shue

Janette Brunk prepares for the role of Betty with the aid of Becca Miller.

Belle (Sarah Irvin) teases Richard (Doug Reed) about his inexperience: "What's the matter Honey Boy? Haven't you ever kissed like that before?"

Nat Miller (Bruce Hostetler) slurps his soup while Sid (Steve Hershberger) amuses the rest of the family with his antics.

AH! WILDERNESS

RICHARD: Aw, I only did it because I like them — and I wanted her to face life as it is. She's so darned afraid of life — afraid of her Old Man — afraid of people saying this or that about her — afraid of being in love — afraid of everything. She's even afraid to let me kiss her. I thought, maybe, reading those things — they're beautiful, aren't they, Pa? — I thought they would give her the spunk to lead her own life, and not be — always thinking of being afraid.

AH! WILDERNESS by Eugene O'Neill

Gordon Miller and Cathy Hockman prepare for their roles in the fall one act production FOXFIRE.

ANNIE: Guess there ain't no place in the world where there ain't no violence.
HOLLY: What happened when somebody got hurt... ...Aunt Annie?
ANNIE: Y' did the best y' could an' trusted in the Lord. I was raised on that.

GUEST SPEAKERS AND ARTISTS

The Eric Yake Kenagy Memorial Visiting Artist Series was inaugurated with a two-day clay workshop and lecture given by international ceramicist Ruth Duckworth.

A meal with Dr. C. Rene Padilla, 1987 Christian World Lecturer from Buenos Aires, Argentina, gave interested students, including Doug Kaufman and Jill Hostetler, an opportunity to respond to Padilla's three lectures on the Third World, power, and Christianity.

Robert Detweiler gave four lectures inspired through work on his upcoming book as the guest speaker for the S.A. Yoder Memorial Lecture Series.

It seems to be a very silly question. Is America possible? Of course America is possible. We are here, it is here, it exists, we exist, therefore, it is possible. But one does not come to chapel to ask and answer obvious questions. The purpose of all gatherings of the spirit is to go beyond the surface. And to dig at levels that we do not ordinarily dig at.

Vincent Harding
Chapel, March 18, 1988

Rosemarie Freeney Harding explains an idea to Ed Metzler and Vincent Harding during one of the breaks in the Staley Lectures on "The Search for a Liberating Spirituality" given jointly by the Hardings.

Frank and Betty Jo Yoder Public Affairs Lectures brought Alice Rivlin, director of Economic Studies program at Brookings Institution, to speak on "The Congress, The President, and Economic Policy."

Dennis Friesen-Carper pulls the funk tune Computer from the ensemble to open the fall Jazz Band concert.

INSTRUMENTAL GROUPS

Lon Feil and Kent Smith keep the rhythm going for the Jazz Band.

There is more to the concept, however, than the diligence of simple repetition. Implicit in its challenge is that we must not be impatient with our learning process. Let us not be so eager for the goal of mastery that we fail to find richness in the journey to it. It is important to enjoy the process of our own learning.

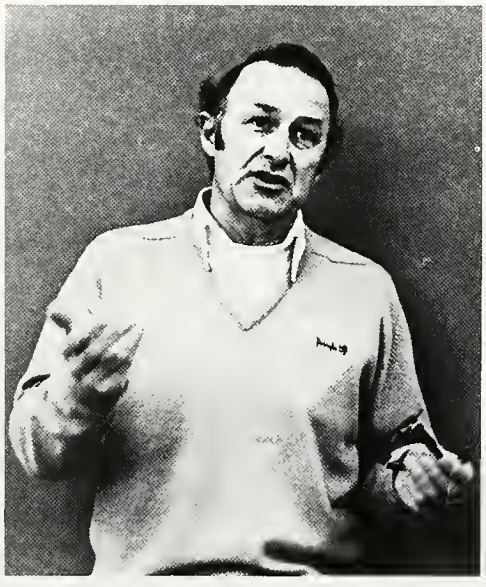
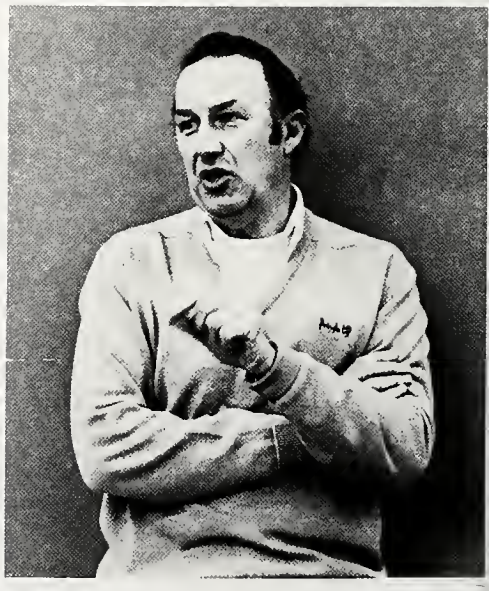
Toney Dodson concentrates on adding a coil to his coil and pinch pot tree.

Fifth year senior Michael Good pours molten aluminum into a styrofoam/sand mold in preparation for his senior exhibit in December. Exhibiting with him were Angel Gardner, Janette Brunk, and Jill Byler.





BIBLE/RELIGION/PHILOSOPHY

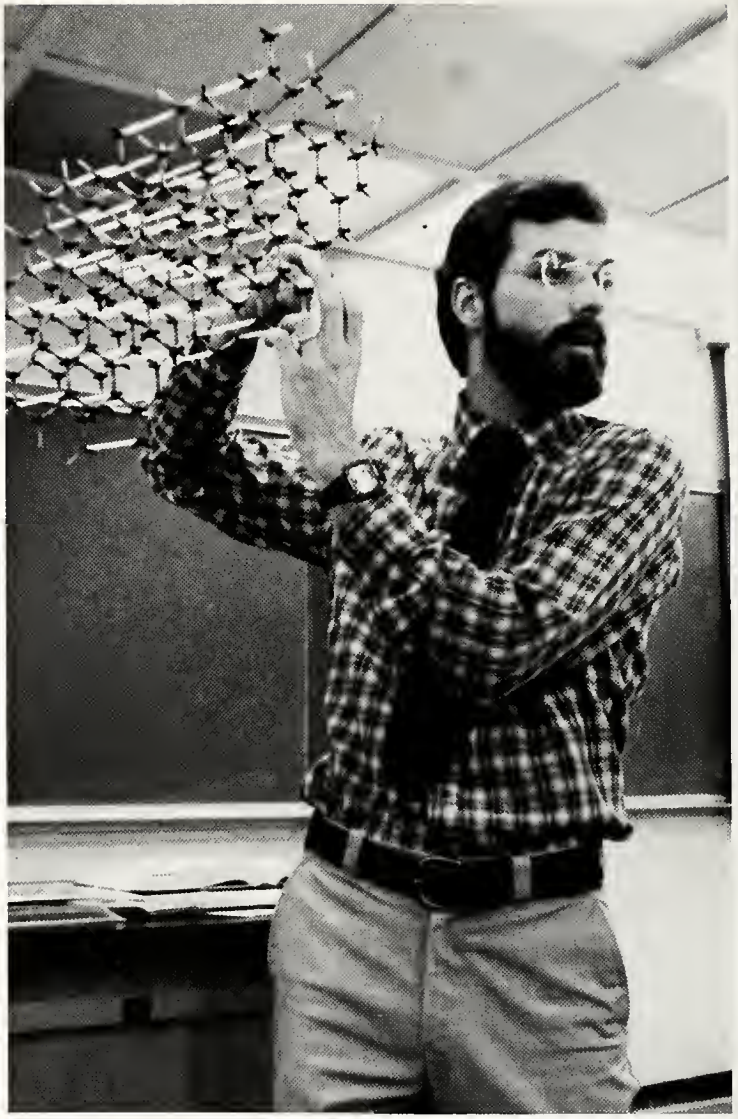
Psychology of Religion, taught by Duane Kauffmann, provides for integration of religion into other areas of interest. Melissa Huber Yoder, Marilyn Burkholder, and Petros Alemeselassie wait for the film to roll.

Don Blosser lets his politics show through as he punctuates the role of women in the church to his Paul class.

Professors Don Blosser, J. Lawrence Burkholder, Marlin Jeschke, Caleb Miller, and Ruth Krall.

J. Lawrence Burkholder hands back an exam to his Monday evening Christianity and Modern Thought philosophy class.

Alicia Nunn, Angela Powell, and Jodi Bixler make notations for their next Biblical literature inductive assignment.



Ken Horst uses a 3-dimensional hexagon model to demonstrate molecular structure to his General Chemistry class.

BIOLOGY/CHEMISTRY

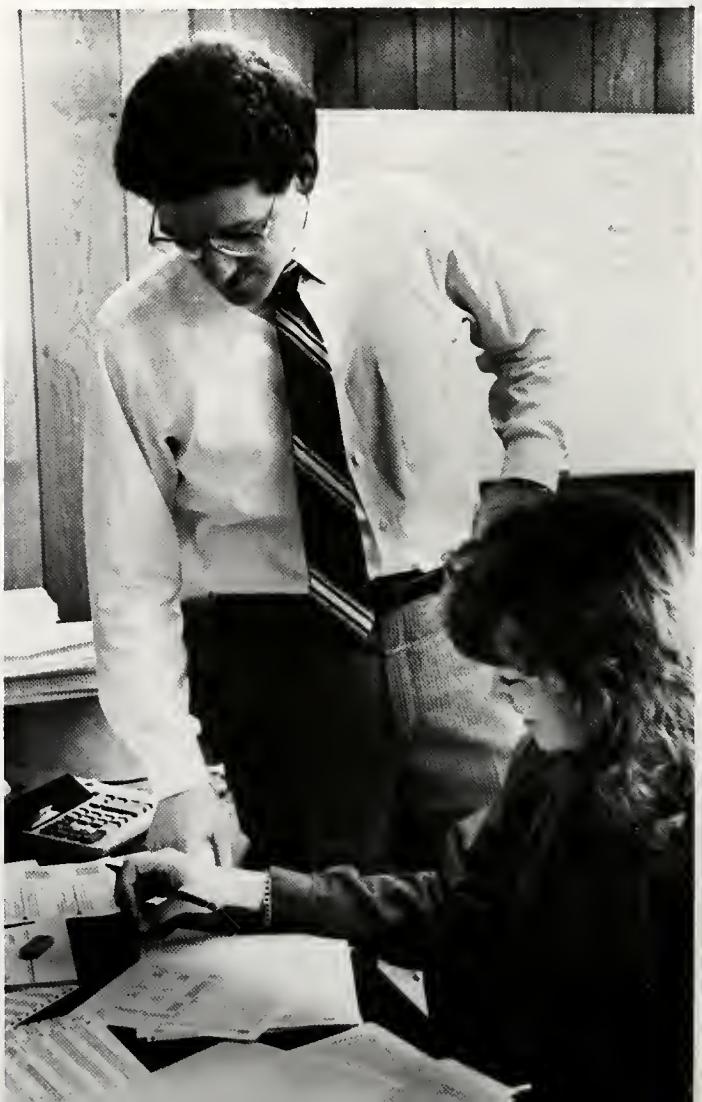
Through hybrid breeding, Stefan Martin studies the dominant and recessive traits of maize seeds for Genetics.

Joann Burnett examines research samples of Cynthia Adams' trimester project. The focus is to explore the increase in protein from substituting buckwheat for wheat.

Professors Don Clemens, Frank Bishop, Ken Horst, James Miller, Jonathan Roth, Larry Yoder, and Stan Grove.

First-year student Tom Cheiner carefully measures his chemicals for a lab in General Chemistry.

John Harmon uses a moment in the Leafraker to check into the Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminary course descriptions.



Senior accounting major, Susan Roth, works at her accounting internship with Jeff Swartzentruber at Mennonite Mutual Aid. Six Goshen students completed internships and twenty-two students worked through practicums to gain experience this year.

Business and Economics majors join to discuss issues and ethics in a Senior Seminar Course. A focus on ethical responsibility took them to Cummins Engine Co. in Columbus, IN.

Professors John Harmon, Randall Gunden, Ron Brunk, Del Good, and Len Geiser.

Del Good reviews a student's case study with the Principles of Management class and draws together the group analysis of the problem.

Trudy Good and Mike Stoltzfus discuss research methods and issues in Communication Theories class.

Lauren Friesen instructs theater majors Bruce Hostetler, Becca Miller, Christy Leichty, George Miller and Steve Hershberger in the art of directing drama. Each student's work culminated in directing and producing a one-act play.

"Hiroshima Mon Amour" provided plenty of symbols for analysis by the Classical Cinema class. Jonathan Shenk discusses the significance of hands with Jeff Peachey, Patrice Gosteli, Fran Digel, Pierre Grosjean, and Dana Whitaker.

COMMUNICATION

Professors Lauren Friesen, Stan Martin, Stuart Showalter, and Dan Hess.

Professors Floyd Saner and Mark Oklak.

COMPUTER SCIENCE

Scott Litwiller takes advantage of the Kratz-Miller computer center. The new center opened this winter to alleviate the overcrowded Schertz Center.

June Templin leads a seminar for staff members Judy Jones and Sandy Miller.

Special Topics: Fundamentals of Computer Algorithms students Elaine Kaufmann and Dave Eby discuss the use of backtracking.

James Gonsalves spends an afternoon in the Shertz Computer Center.

Learning eye/hand coordination by putting together puzzles is only one of the activities in the Goshen College kindergarten. Kathryn Aschliman supervises three of the community children served by the college program.

Tom Yoder presents a high-school English lesson to classmates in Spring Term 1 Sophomore Field Work course. Taught by Kathy Gnagey Short, this course is the introduction to the classroom setting.

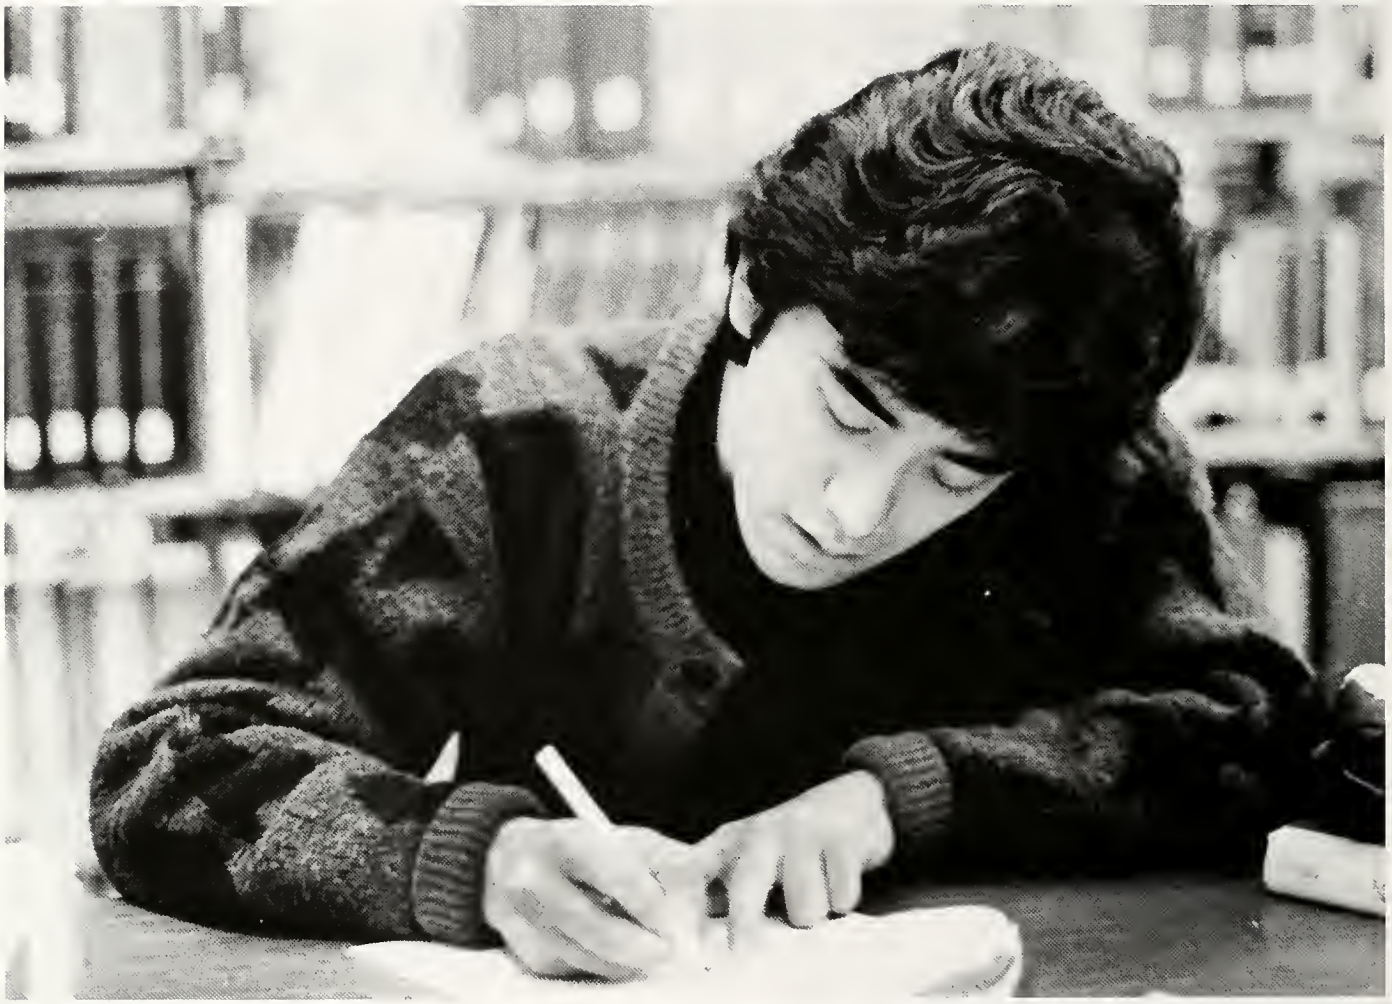
Dawn Gerber and Jodi Meabon jot down pointers as John Smith lectures in The Secondary School.

EDUCATION

Marvin Bartel and Kim Hawkins discuss the aesthetics of a potato print logo in Art for Children. The two-part assignment of potato prints and linocuts is designed with materials easily available in the elementary school setting.

Professors Anita Lapp, Kathryn Aschliman, John Smith, and Kathy Gnagey Short.

Yujin Yaguchi researches his paper for American Drama: Study of Literature course this fall.



ENGLISH

Professors John Fisher, Wilbur Birky, Shirley Showalter, Ervin Beck, and Rosemary Wyse.

First Spring Term Study of American Literature students absorb the Romantic "darker side" of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Karl Frey and Jen Hoard listen to Ervin Beck's analysis of the Colombian Gabriel Garcia Marquez's No One Writes to the Colonel in Monday evening International Literature.

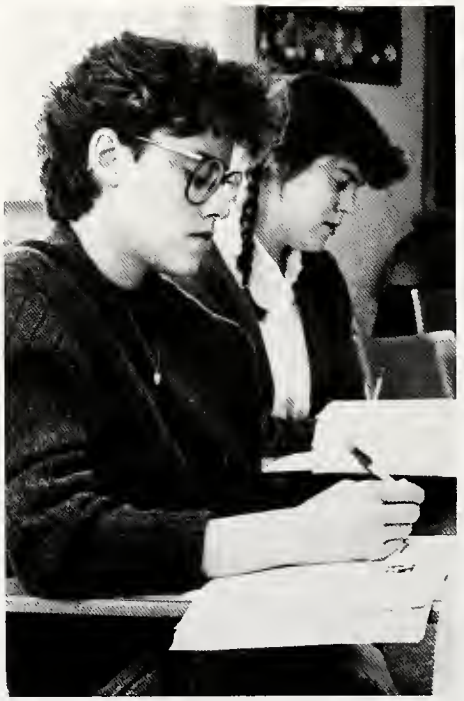
Exposition 8 offers examples for Cynthia Wyse as she prepares to write a documented argument for Expository Writing.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Discussion of the novel Cien Anos De Soledad takes Spanish American Literature students Corey Franz and Heidi Kauffmann, and professor Rafael Falcon to a new environment.

The upcoming spring SST in East Germany motivates Jodie Peters and Kristine Regehr to understand the grammatical rules of the German language.

Gerhard Reimer compares the grammatical structure of German to English for his German 202 students.



Chinese IV students Trudy Good, George Miller, and Frank Hess work through a book exercise on sentence construction under the instruction of Professor Zhou Linyou.

Professors Judith Davis, Gerhard Reimer, Rafael Falcon, and Zhou Linyou.

Joel Otto searches for the correct wording as he prepares for Spring Guadeloupe SST. Although no longer offering the French Major, interest and SST requirements keep the classes full.

Professors Jose Ortiz, Elizabeth Soto, and Elias Acosta.

HISPANIC MINISTRIES

Elizabeth Soto joined the Hispanic Ministries department this year in teaching Introduction to Old Testament II.

Pablo Jimenez and Jorge Camacho work through La Biblia in their study of the Old Testament.

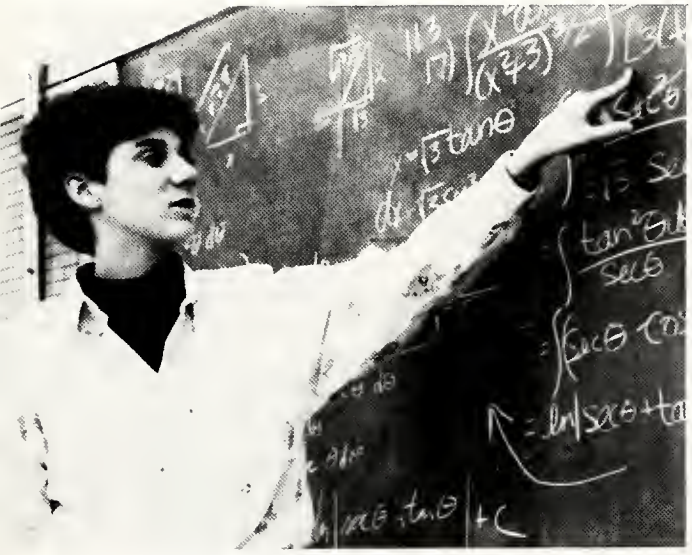
Professors John Roth, James Hertzler, and Theron Schlabach.

John Roth and Marcus Wegner peruse The Record in search of Roth's book review on Alan Bloom's The Closing of the American Mind after a Friday Renaissance and Reformation class.

H I S T O R Y

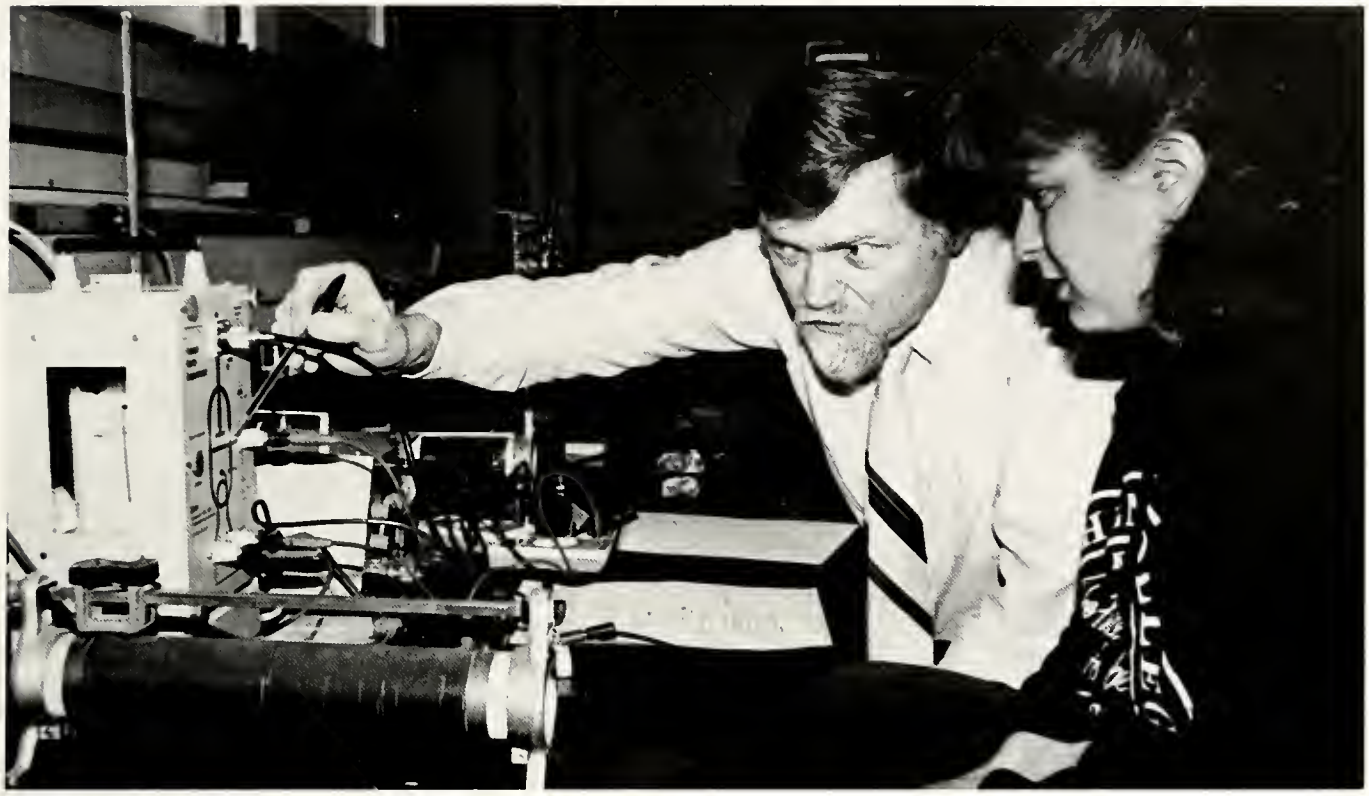
History of Mennonites in America students Doug Liechty Caskey, Sheila Swartzentruber, and Dave Riegsecker examine copies of Martyr's Mirror in the Horsch Room.

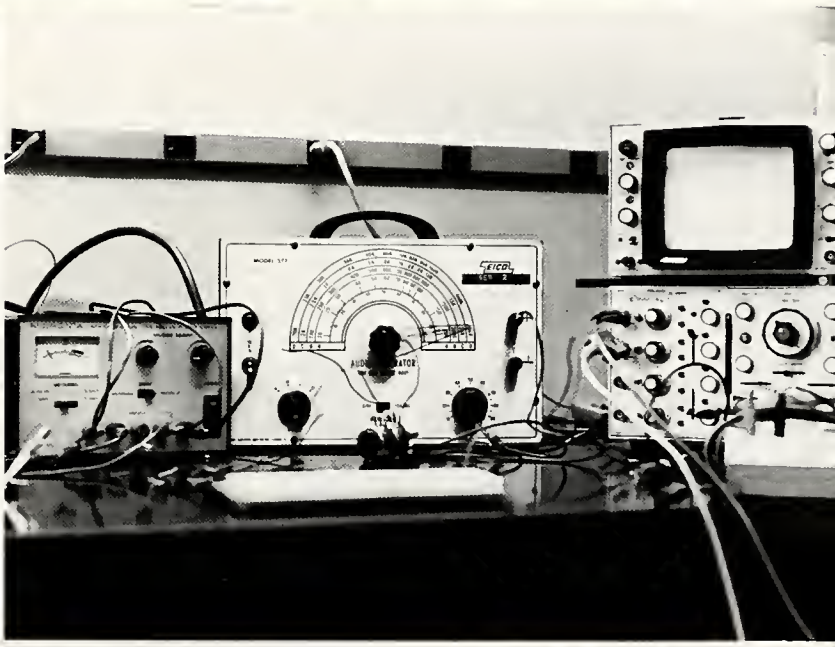
Randy Rheinheimer and Kenton Longenecker calculate the alternating current from the oscilliscope for an electronics lab assignment.



Julie Hertzler explains a trigonometric substitution for a Calculus II problem session.

Professors Arnold Wedel, Ron Milne, and Carl Helrich.

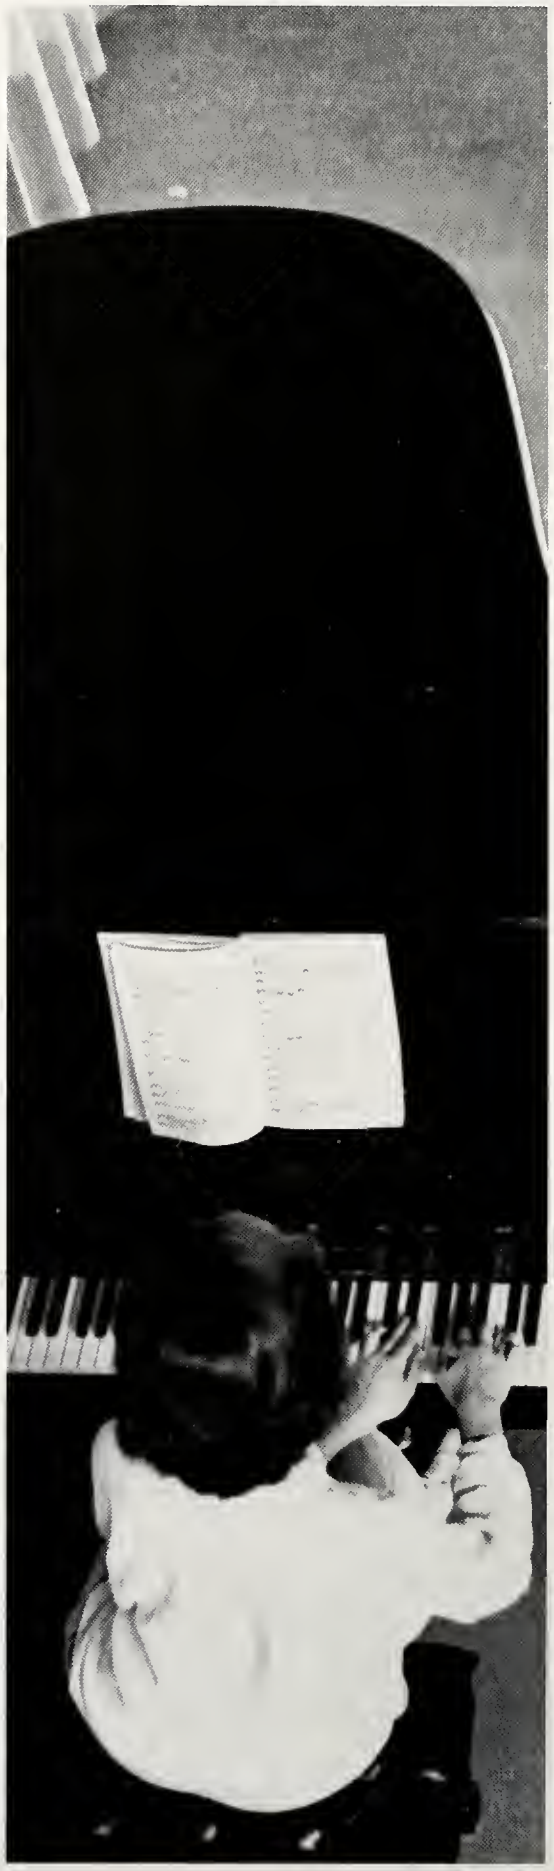




Carl Helrich works on the Frank-Hertz experiment with Lynda Rupp in measuring the energy levels of electrons in the mercury atom.

Bruce Lin works through an integration problem in Calculus II.

Bev Lapp prepares to accompany students for their private voice lessons.



Larry Penner, Ed King, and Ted Birkey practice for Jazz Combo at a late night session on Arts third.

MUSIC

Directing at a 3:30 practice in AD 28, Kay Montgomery calls for a raise in pitch from the chorale.

Professors Kathryn Sherer, Mary Louise Hooley, Lon Sherer, Kay Montgomery, David Mosley, Mary Jo Schmidt, and Doyle Preheim.

Sara Hochstetler, Tiffany Friesen, and Charisse Streeter work on a harmonic analysis in Music Theory.

Ruth Ann Lapp, Erica Yoder, and Becky Litwiller sketch the biological structure of a fetal pig during Spring Term I Anatomy and Physiology class. Entrance to the nursing program is dependent on completion of this course.

The pinning ceremony, held the day before graduation, recognizes those graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree.

Seniors Susan Carlson and Janet Hilborn leave a day's practicum at Goshen General Hospital Emergency Room.

After a day at the hospital, Mary Burk and Monica Strand fill in the yellow care plans with a nursing diagnosis and goals for the next week.

Professors Helen Shrode, Julia Leatherman, Fran Wenger, Kay Yutzy, Lora Workentin, Norma Jean Weldy, Anne Hershberger, Ida Gross, and Evelyn Driver.

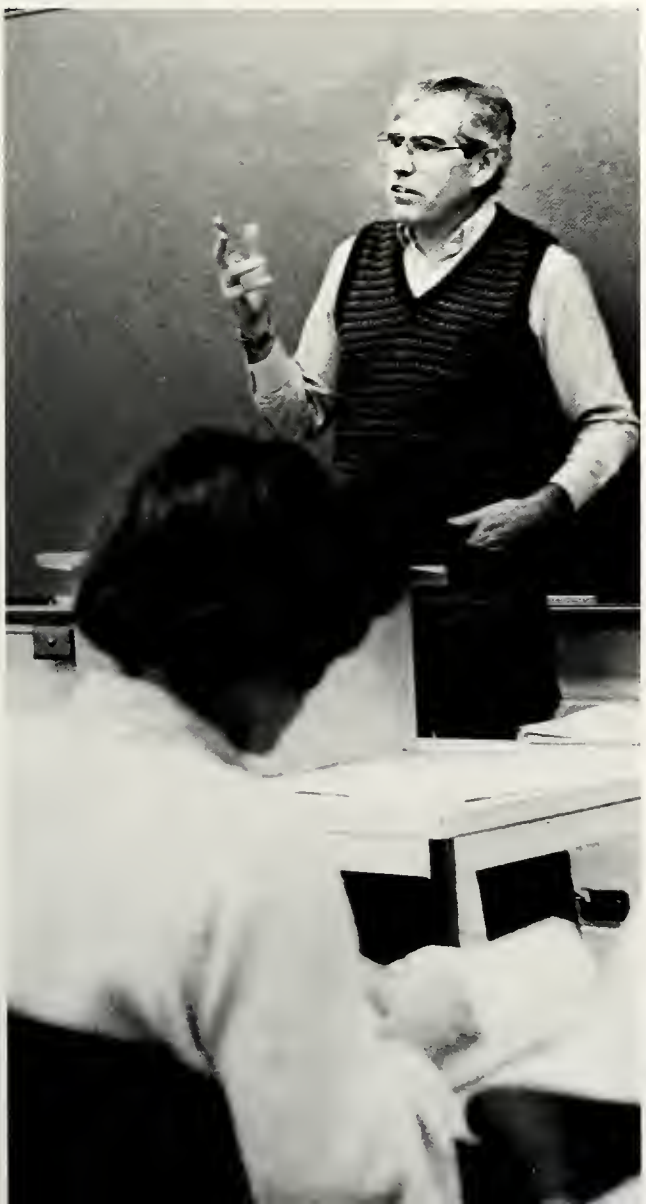
Professors Linda 'Pert' Shetler, John Ingold, Jeff Birky, Dwain Hartzler, Sue Roth, Don Ogle

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Jamie Stutzman and Dan Haggerty watch intently as the mechanics of muscle movement in a free throw are demonstrated.

Jennifer Manley, studying under the newly developed athletic training minor, wraps an ankle before the Goshen-EMC soccer game as part of her practical experience.

Professors Duane Kauffmann and Victor Koop.



PSYCHOLOGY

Jill Koop hands in her statement for the day's discussion in Contemporary Viewpoints.

Victor Koop lectures to his winter term Abnormal Psychology class.

Dan Liechty and Carl Lind calculate the results of the campus wide survey on GC's Standards of Living for their Methods of Social Research class.

Marriage and Family students Hanny Soetjahja and Lori Frederick hear Kathy Masts concerns and questions during a class discussion.

Ron Stutzman returns the mid-term exam to his Cultural Anthropology students.

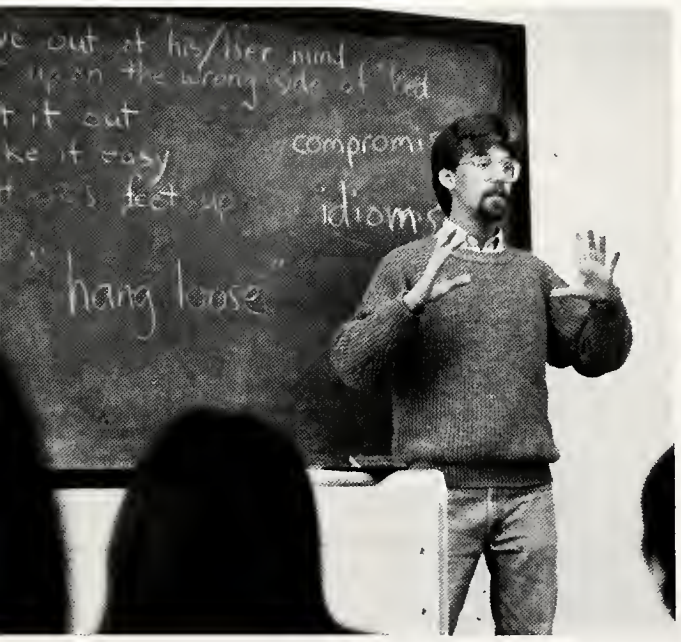
Willard Krabill opens the evening's topic of sexuality in the Bible in the Human Sexuality course.

Professors J. Howard Kauffman, Anna Bowman, Robert Birkey, Ron Stutzman, Goldie Ivory, and Mary Anne Hollinger.

Mary Hershberger, Sheree Yoder, and Lisa Bryant join in their small group's discussion. Human Sexuality divides into smaller groups for the processing of issues.

Ann Birky, Milo Miller, Eric Massanari, and Jill Ropp relax at a park in Wuhan.

C H I N A



Scott Hepler instructs his class of first-year students at Sichuan Normal University in the use of English idioms.

Jana King explains the Halloween custom of pumpkin-carving to a young friend.

Carol Shenk and one of her students make jaozi, a type of meat-filled dumpling often eaten on picnics.

Sunday, March 13, 1988

Lord, grant me patience. Patience to endure that annoying sound that is constantly emitted by that wretched, out-of-tune thing that once was a guitar and which no one here has any idea how to play. Patience not to throw anything at the stereo no matter how many times they insist on playing the same song by what sounds like the Hispanic Gospel Chipmunks. Patience to see the good things in the wailing they call singing, like the fact that it is a "joyful noise unto the Lord" and it helps to drown out the guitar . . .

One of the many crowded back streets in the city of Chongqing.

Dave Eby practices tai ji, an ancient Chinese meditative art.

Von Schrock writes home.

Cindi Surgener serves Coke to the families at the fall farewell picnic.

. . . Lord, help me quit wishing I was back in Capotillo as it's not possible right now. Lord help me to live each day for its own merit instead of just biding time, even if I am 75.86 percent done with my experience and only have 497 hours until I board the plane to Miami. Help me not to feel superior because I've spent 314 hours sitting in Bible classes or because I come from a beautiful tradition of a capella harmony in 4 parts, or because of all my various and sundry religious arguments, apologies, and explanations when they have a simple child-like faith: "I tell you the truth, unless you change and become like little children you will never enter the kingdom of Heaven." . . .

Karen Linkhart welcomes Jodi Miller back from Costa Rica.

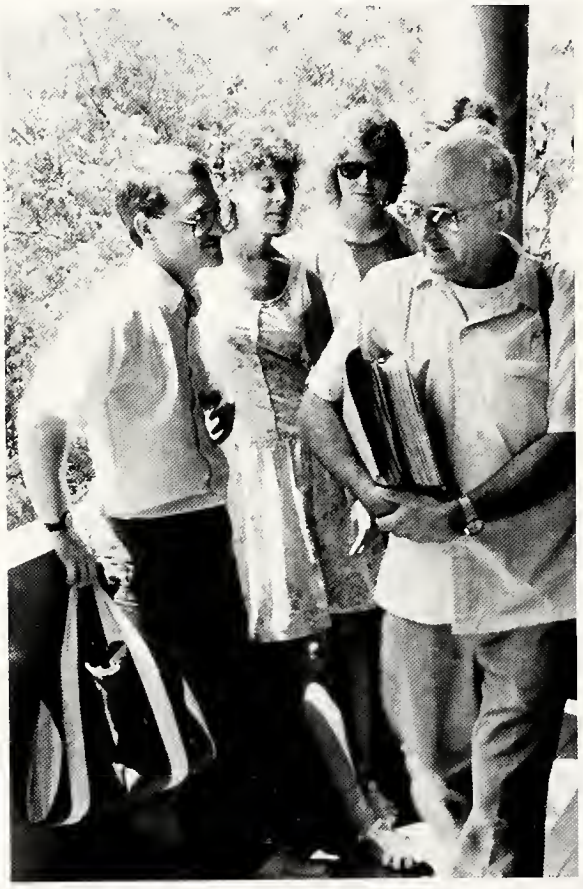
Lori Oswald, Karen Kaufmann, Kim Stjernholm, and Margie Helmuth absorb the Record in an effort to keep up with the news from GC.

Fall SSTers Jenna Hershey and Anne Hunsicker are fascinated by a street merchant's goods.

Ben Stutzman is covered with cameras as he captures the moment for the spring unit.

Jeff Weber is confronted by an eager vendor on the streets of Santo Domingo.

One of the Spanish professors at Universidad Nacional Pedro Henriques Urena walks by as Ted Love, Jennifer Bohn, and Christy Risser wait outside their classroom.



Spring Dominican SSTers relax in the lobby of a hotel in Santo Domingo's colonial district.

One of Santo Domingo's mercados.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

. . . Help me to be patient when there are little eyes on me all the time. Help me to be patient when the words "they have cameras" or "would you like to take a picture" immediately follow our introduction. Forgive me for being selfish with my film, forgive me for judging people by their appearances, by their musical talent, or anything else trivial like that . . .

With great expectations, three of the Spring SST units endure the thirty-hour bus trip to Miami.

Ben Stutzman says good-bye to his sister Hannah before leaving for three months in Jena, East Germany.

EAST GERMANY

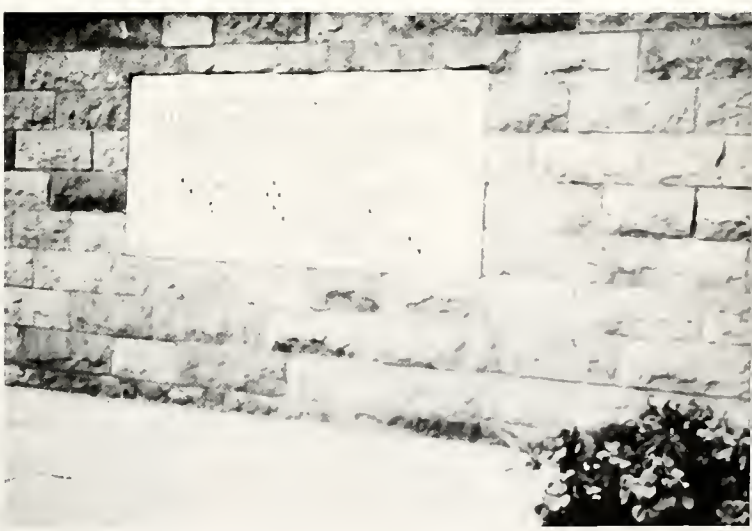
Main lecture hall building of the Fredrich Schiller-Universitat, where SSTers have their language classes and lectures.

. . . Help me to see them as you see them. Lord, it's easy to live "one day at a time" when things are going smoothly. Help me to remember now that "yesterday's gone" and "tomorrow may never be mine" when I'm missing Eighth Street Mennonite in Goshen, or Mennonite Fellowship of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. Help me to remember that you are just as concerned about and just as present in Iglesia Evangelica Missionera de El Cadillar. And that although those other places may have felt like home yesterday and may again tomorrow, today I'm at home here . . .



Text on war memorial plaque: "The victims of the Anglo-American bombing attack on the city of Jena in the spring of 1945 admonish us: There is nothing more important than maintaining peace." Goshen SSTers walk by this every day.

Lisa Rheinheimer listens to her brother, Randy, as he gives her messages to deliver to friends in Jena.

. . . Lord, thanks for the bed I slept in last night, surely the nicest since I left home in January. It really made my day. Forgive me the way I felt when that glorious slumber was massacred by a radio cranked up to full volume. Lord, if there's some tactful way I can demonstrate to these people that radios can be played at other levels than off and ear-shattering, show it to me. If not, teach me to grin and bear it. Help me to hang in there Father, and glorify you always. In the name of the Son, who taught us to love people even when they turn the radio clear up or always ask to have their picture taken, I pray. Amen.

SOCCER

Chad Horning (fr.) tackles from behind

Everyone came to the team from different places, but during the season a bond formed between the players.
Even though the team was young,
it was very determined.
Everyone made an effort to have a positive year.
Dan Haggerty, Jr.

Playing soccer at Goshen is a tradition for the Zehr family. Merle (sr.) and Jerry (fr.) are two of the nine Zehr brothers who have contributed to Goshen's program over the past twenty years. The alumni game this year fielded all nine of the Zehrs.

BASKETBALL

Linda "Pert Shetler, coach, Sharon Swartley, assistant coach, Rochelle Krause, Karen Yoder, Jan Kolb, Missy Zimmerman, Donna Porter, Kathy Mast, Steve Leinbach, assistant coach, Michelle Miller, manager. Dee Washington, Kelli Boyer, Dawn Gerber, Darla Beck, Jan Helmuth, and Jennifer North.

Throughout the entire season we didn't realize how good we could actually be. After a slow start, we beat the No. 1 team in Indiana, Indiana Tech, and from that point on we became more motivated, determined, and anxious to reach our potential.
Karen Yoder, Sr.

Jennifer North, so., guards against the Grace offense.

Pert Shetler, Kelli Boyer, Dee Washington, Missy Zimmerman, Jan Kolb, Karen Gerber, and Jennifer North wait out the bench as the other five fill the court.

Senior Dawn Gerber aims for another point in her record-breaking season.

First year player Kathy Mast anticipates the move as Donna Porter, so., pulls in the rebound against Grace College.

The up and down season we had this year tested the determination of our team. Although the season was discouraging at times, with this year's experience behind us, we'll be a stronger team next year.

Kevin Ritchie, Jr.

Cory Good, fr.

Dave Coil, so., works the shot inside while tangled with Marian defenders.

BASKETBALL

David Maugel, fr., and Mark Gerber, fr., defend the shot.

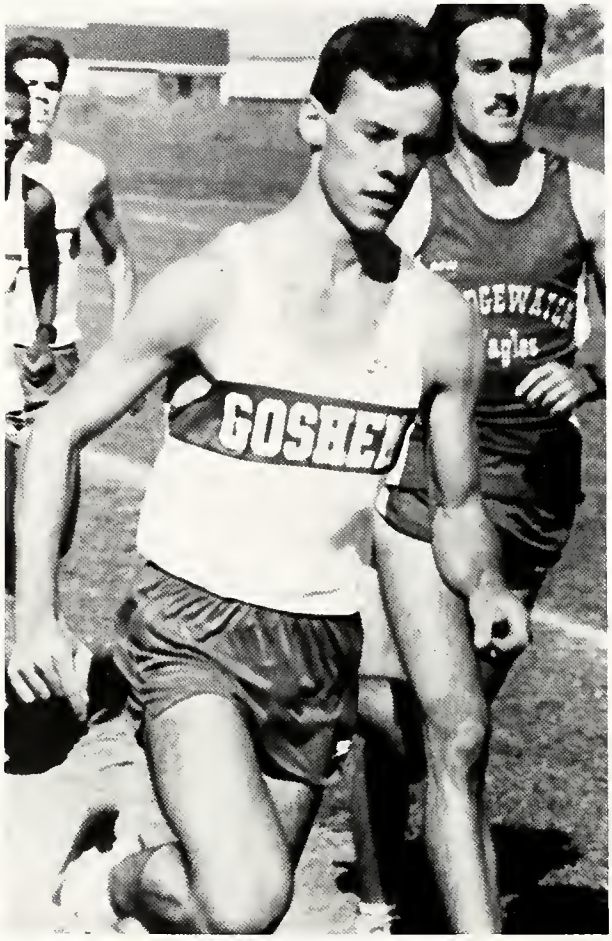
I've found that running is an excellent way to train the mind in addition to training the body. The ability to push through the pain barrier comes from much sweat, determination, and motivation.

David Little, So.



With Bekumusa Msibi and Dan Holcombe close behind, Phil Yoder pushes toward the finish just ahead of a Bridgewater opponent at the EMC tri-meet.

Phil Yoder, Shashi Buluswar, Dan Holcombe, Coach Jeff Birky, Coach Lyle Miller, Dave Little, Kent Smith, David Kimpler, Bekumusa Msibi. Pam Trytko, Palesa Makhale, Heidi Boschmann, Karyn Gregory, Sue Hershberger, Lori Nofziger, Rochelle Krause, Janette Wisseman, and Aletha Stahl.

Dave Martin keeps his balance as he spins through a discus throw at practice.

The most pressure I felt this season was at the Mid-Central Conference meet in Huntington. I believed that I really had the potential to do well. As it turned out, I had some added competition, and this made me all the more determined to run my best.

Coach John Ingold, Randy Detweiler, Lon Swartzentruber, Scott Kaufmann, Brad Miller, Matt Steiner, and Kirk Yoder.

I enjoy golf because it is a more personal sport, involving independent responsibility. It's up to me to psych myself up for each match. If I play well, that's great, but if I play poorly, I have no one to blame but myself.

Lon Swartzentruber, Sr.

Brad Miller, so., sets up for the tee-off.

James Loewen goes through his wind-up.

Our spring trip to Missouri helped to bring all of the guys closer as a team. We spent a lot of time inside because of the snow, and we really got to know each other. I believe these friendships we developed did a lot to inspire us throughout the season.

Doug Dischler, Jr.

Al Kemper leans his body into a triple.

Fall soccer players Dave Beachy, Jon Bornman, and Ivan Pankratz.

Chet Eshleman, Holly Miller, Jodi Meabon, Michelle Miller, Dori Roth, Bruce Janz, and Troy Miller watch a women's basketball game.

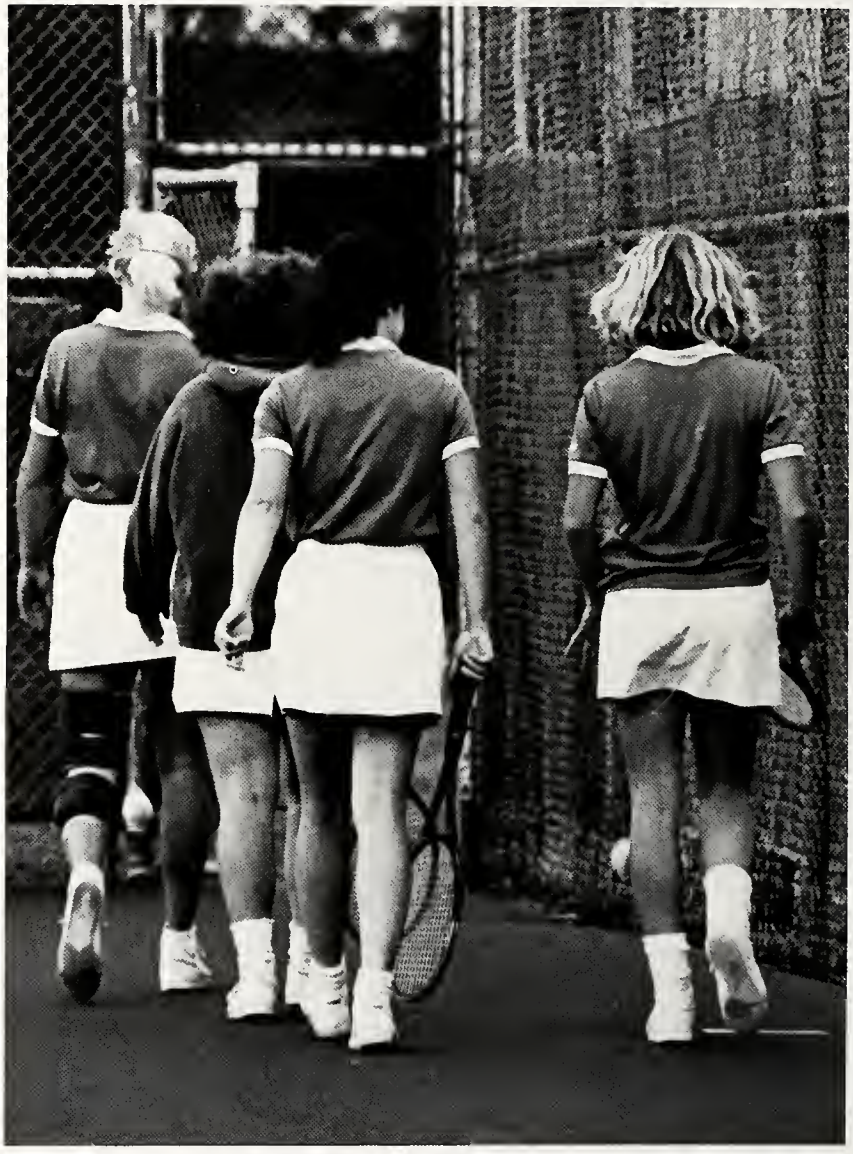
INTRAMURAL

Becky Yoder and Jeff Kauffman take their sock covered hockey sticks to the floor for an indoor tourney.

Kevin Schloneger tries to work the ball past Rex Hochstedler to Darren Miller in A-League ball.

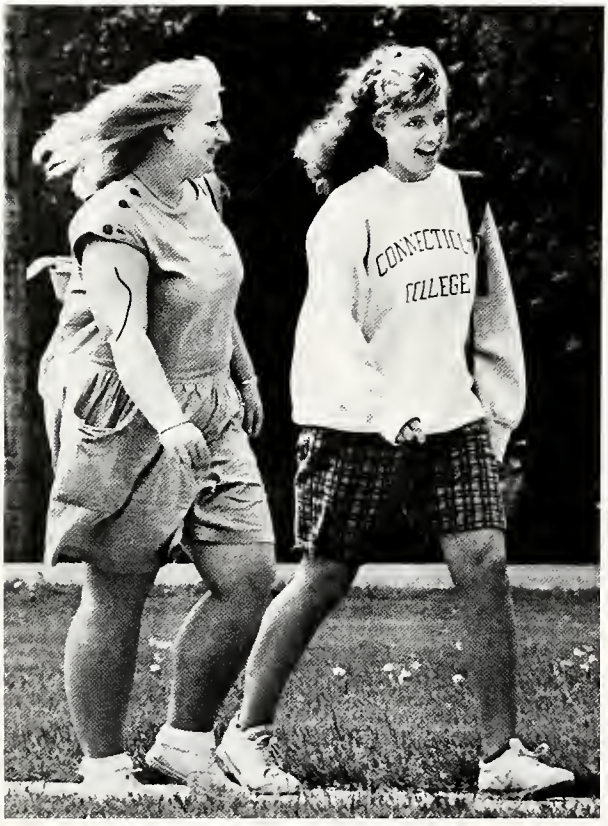
DIRECTIONS

Susan Hunsberger, Jill Wyse, Kim Leuz, Emily Headings



We come from different directions.

Mary Hershberger, Maria Lehman



From around the world. From across the country. To one small, liberal arts, Christian college in the midwest. We attend Bib Lit, chapel, and Books and Ideas. We go to the mailbox, Leafraker, and cafeteria. But we bring varied references. We make our own interpretations.

Tim Drescher, Quentin Clemens

Christy Leichty

Michael Amstutz, Kurt Stutzman, Mark Gerber

So we go different directions.

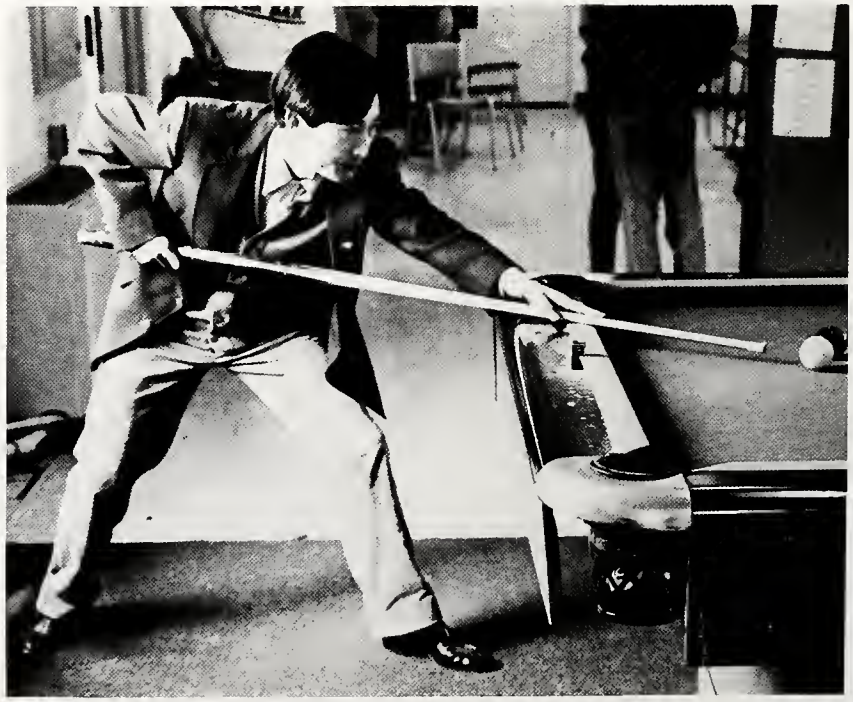
CHINESE PROFESSORS

Chen Da Li, Luo Shijun, Yang Jiajun, Kong Li, Wang Qingyun, Shen Kai, Tang Xing Zheng, Li Neng-Xiang, and Lan Yong hong.



Wang Qingyun

Kenwood House on Eighth Street became home for the professors during their ten-month stay.

Yang Jiajun

Chen Da Li, Wang Qingyun, Kong Li, Kenneth King, and Lan Yonghong walk along the plaza in Washington, D.C. The 13-day tour sponsored by the SST office and planned by Kenneth and Laura Ann King included travel through Philadelphia, New York and the Capitol.

Materially you are very rich, so you waste a lot. You waste food, drink, paper, but you never waste time. Your country and your people are rich, but not perfect.

Kong Li
Chapel, May 10, 1988

GRADUATION

To be whole involves self-abandonment. Wholeness involves letting go, throwing ourselves into whatever it is that we're doing . . . What you do now, in Goshen, is going to make a difference, what you do as you leave here and go into the larger world. You matter. While you have been in college, you've been given a fine education. But you have also spent four years in being trained to be human beings . . . Who you are. What you are. That is what's going to make the difference. To you. And to everybody you encounter . . . Take with you out into the world your passion and your concern. Live robustly. Care about injustice, and greed, and corruption, enough so that you are never tempted to slide in that direction . . . Be who you are, fully, wholly, and you will be a witness to all that you have learned here and learned to care about. Go. And God go with you. Amen.

Madeleine L'Engle
90th Commencement Speaker

Following the ceremony, students gather outside the Union to congratulate the graduates.

Verette Sweet and Yanira Duenas share the excitement of graduation while waiting to form the procession in the chapel building.

Ken Rodgers greets senior Joe Lehman after the commencement exercises.

A beautiful but windy afternoon forces the graduates to hold onto their caps during the processional from the Chapel to the Union.

Like many other graduates, Ludmila Gluchoman poses with family for pictures.

Pam Peachey and Morlin Elias prepare to enter the auditorium.

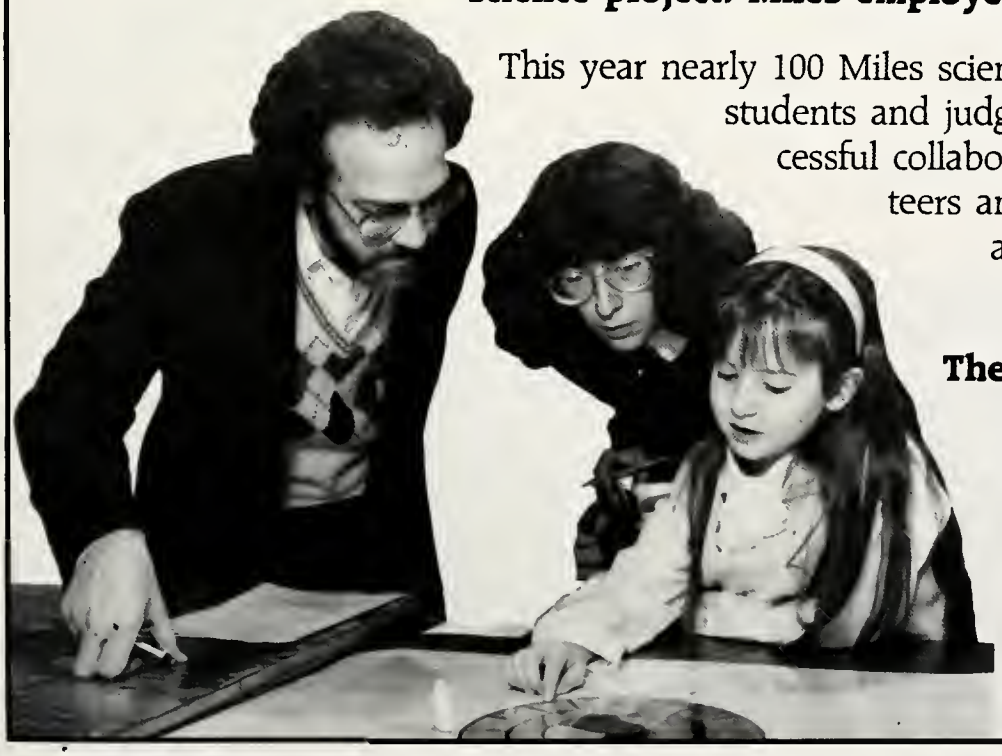
Miles Cares About Your Future

A career in business can start with something as small as a school science project. Miles employees know.



This year nearly 100 Miles scientists and engineers coached students and judged at science fairs. The successful collaboration between these volunteers and local schools helped earn an Indiana state "Partners in Education" grant.

There's more to science than tests and grades. Science doesn't stop after school. It can lead to exciting possibilities.
